

ABSTRACT

The invention includes a wearable data storage device having a data storage unit, a non-clasping data transmitter, a non-clasping data receiver, a male clasping data connector, a female clasping data connector, and a band. The male clasping data connector is at one end of the band and the female clasping data connector is at the other end of the band. The invention also includes methods of transferring data using the wearable data storage device.